CDP China Hong Kong Base Established

Cambridge Design Partnership have recently extended their capabilities with new staff to support growing opportunities in the Greater China region.

Based in Hong Kong, Helen Lewis will initially provide project management continuity and technical support to a range of CDP-created innovations that are being manufactured in a region with South East China at its centre.

CDP expects the role to expand in the future to include activities such as supplier sourcing, transfer to manufacture and increasingly higher value development activities local to the low cost manufacturing resource.

"Many of our products are increasingly reliant on partners in the Greater China region. This new capability is of real value to our clients and ensures the competitiveness of our business."
